RIGHTS OF NURSING HOME MEMBERS

The Home must protect and promote the rights of each Member, including each of the following rights:

- Privacy

- To personal privacy and confidentiality of his or her personal and medical records
- To have personal privacy in their accommodations, medical treatment, written and telephone communications, personal care, visits, and meetings of family and Member groups.
- To personal privacy, including the right to privacy in his or her oral, written, and electronic communications to send and promptly receive personal, unopened mail and other letters, packages, and other materials delivered to the Home for the Member, including those delivered through a means other than a postal service.
- To privately communicate with individuals and entities within and external to the facility, including reasonable access to a telephone, including TTY and TDD services, and to the internet, to the extent available to the facility and the ability to send mail. This includes the right to retain and use a cellular phone at the Member's own expense.
- To have access to stationery, postage and writing implements at the Member's own expense
- To have reasonable access to and privacy in their use of electronic communications such as email and video communications and for Internet research, at the Member's expense, if available to the facility, and use must comply with state and federal law.
- To approve or refuse the release of personal and clinical records to any individual outside the facility, except upon transfer to another health care institution or as required by law to include but not limited to public health activities, reporting of abuse, neglect, or domestic violence, health oversight activities, or third-party payment contract.

- Self-Determination

- To exercise complete choice of healthcare providers of physical and mental health care, and of pharmacist.
- The facility management must inform each Member of the name and way of contacting the primary physician responsible for his or her care.
- To a safe, clean, comfortable and homelike environment, including but not limited to receiving treatments and supports for daily living safely provided by the Home to maximize their independence.
- To be encouraged and assisted to exercise rights as a Member and as a U.S. citizen.
- To voice grievances to the facility or other agency or entity that hears grievances without discrimination or reprisal and without fear of discrimination or reprisal. Such grievances include those with respect to care and treatment which has been furnished as well as that which has not been furnished, the behavior of staff and of other Members, and other concerns regarding your stay at the Home.
- To a dignified existence, self-determination, and communication with and access to persons and services inside and outside the facility.
- To choose to or refuse to perform services for the facility and the facility must not require a Member to perform services for the Home.

- To receive visitors of his or her choosing at the time of his or her choosing, subject to the Member's right to deny visitation when applicable, and in a manner that does not impose on the rights of other Members. This includes: immediate family Members and relatives, personal physician, the Member representative, and any representatives of: the Office of the State Long Term Care Ombudsman; the Secretary; or the State; the protection and advocacy systems as designated by the state and as established under the Development Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act of 2000; and the protection and advocacy system for individuals with a mental disorder; and any entities or individuals that provide health, social, legal, or other services who wish to visit; and others with consent of the Member, subject to reasonable clinical and safety restrictions.
  - To choose activities, schedules (including sleeping and waking times), health care and providers of health care services consistent with his/her interests, assessments, and plan of care.
  - To interact with Members of the community and participate in community activities both inside and outside the facility.
  - To make choices about aspects of his/her life in the facility that are significant to the Member.
  - To organize and participate in Member groups in the facility.
  - To participate in family groups.
  - To have family Member(s) or other Member representative(s) meet in the facility with the families or Member representative(s) of other Members in the facility.
  - To participate in other activities, including social, religious, and community groups/activities which do not interfere with the rights of the Members who live at the Home.
  - To manage his or her personal financial affairs. This includes the right to know, in advance, what charges a facility may impose against a Member's personal funds.
- Exercise of Rights
    - To be free of interference, coercion, discrimination, or reprisal from the Home, and to be supported by the Home in exercising his or her rights.
    - In the case of a Member determined incompetent under the laws of a State by a court of jurisdiction, the rights of the Member devolve to and are exercised by the person appointed under State law to act on the Member's behalf.
    - In the case of a Member who has not been adjudged incompetent by the State court, the Member has the right to designate a representative, in accordance with State law and any legal surrogate so designated may exercise the Member's rights to the extent provided by state law. The same-sex spouse of a Member must be afforded treatment equal to that afforded to an opposite-sex spouse if the marriage was valid in the jurisdiction in which it was celebrated.
- Information and Communication
    - To be fully informed, as evidenced by a written acknowledgment, prior to or at the time of admission and during the stay, of all these rights, rules and regulations which govern personal conduct and responsibilities.
    - To inspect his/her own medical and personal record. Twenty-four hours notice (excluding weekends and holidays) is requested so that a staff person can be available to answer any questions which may arise. Copies from the record may be purchased, upon written request, and with a minimum of forty-eight hours' notice. Medical record information is confidential and released only with authorization. A fee per page will be charged based on facility policy.
    - To receive required notices orally and in writing in a format and a language that he or she understands
      - A description of the manner of protecting personal funds.

    - To formulate an advance directive.
    - To be informed of, and participate in, his or her treatment and be supported in this right
    - To be fully informed in language that he or she can understand of his or her total health status, including but not limited to his/her medical condition
    - To participate in the development and implementation of his or her person-centered plan of care.
    - To participate in the planning process, including the right to identify individuals or roles to be included in the planning process, the right to request meetings and the right to request revisions to the person-centered plan of care.
    - To participate in establishing the expected goals and outcomes of care, the type, amount, frequency, and duration of care, and any other factors related to the effectiveness of the plan of care.
    - To be informed, in advance, of changes to the plan of care.
    - To receive the services and/or items included in the plan of care.
    - To see the care plan, including the right to sign after significant changes to the plan of care.
    - To be informed, in advance, of the care to be furnished and the type of care giver or professional that will furnish care.
    - To be informed in advance, by the physician or other practitioner or professional, of the risks and benefits of proposed care, of treatment and treatment alternatives or treatment options and to choose the alternative or option he or she prefers.
    - To self-administer medications if interdisciplinary team has determined this practice and clinically appropriate.
  - Respect and Dignity
    - If married, to be assured of privacy during spousal visits. If both spouses are Members of the Home, to be permitted to share a room if medically feasible, regardless of sexual orientation. Same-sex spouse of the Member must be afforded treatment equal to an opposite-sex spouse if the marriage was valid where it occurred. The right to share a room with his/her roommate of choice, when practicable, when both Members live in the same nursing care building and both Members consent to the arrangement. Doesn't apply to facilities that have only private rooms.
    - To retain and use personal possessions, including furnishings and clothing as space permits, so long as doing so would not complicate a medical condition or infringe on another Member's rights, health or safety.
    - To be transferred or discharged out of the facility only for the Member's own welfare and the Member's needs cannot be met in the facility, the Member's health has improved sufficiently so the Member no longer needs the services provided by the facility,, the safety of individuals in the facility is endangered due to the clinical or behavioral status of the Member, the health of individuals in the facility would otherwise be endangered, , or for nonpayment (except as prohibited by Medicaid, or the facility ceases to operate. The Member and Member representative must be given reasonable advance notice of transfer or discharge.
    - To receive written notice, including the reason for the change, before the Member's room or roommate in the facility is changed.

- To be free from restraints, both chemical and physical, except for the least restrictive alternative for the least amount of time as authorized in writing by a doctor for a specified and limited time period or when necessary to protect themselves or other Members from injury.
  - To be free from abuse, neglect, misappropriation of Member property, and exploitation. This includes but is not limited to freedom from corporal punishment and involuntary seclusion.
  - To reside and receive services in the facility with reasonable accommodation of individual needs and preferences, except when the health or safety of the Member or other Members would be endangered.
1. To receive adequate and appropriate care within the capacity of the facility.
  2. The facility management must inform each Member before, or at the time of admission, and periodically during the Member's stay, of services available in the facility and of charges for those services to be billed to the Member.
  3. A statement that the Member may file a complaint with the State (agency) concerning Member abuse, neglect, misappropriation of Member property in the facility, exploitation, and non-compliance with the advance directives requirements.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF NURSING HOME MEMBERS

The Wisconsin Veterans Home requires each Member, or his or her legal representative, to assume the following responsibilities:
